IDAHO AT A GLANCE

Idaho's 82,413 square miles varies geographically from high desert in the south to beautiful forests and rugged mountains in the north. There's something here for everyone, and we're pleased to have the opportunity to share these facts and figures about living and working in our beautiful state.

EMPLOYMENT

Idaho has a strong and diversified economy. While the traditional resource-based industries of agriculture, forest products, and mining continue to contribute to the economy, high-tech, tourism, retail trade, health services, renewable energy, recreation technology, business to business and information-oriented services are among the growth sectors.

Nonfarm jobs increased 4.4. percent in 2006 and 2.7 percent in 2007 before falling in 2008 – the first annual decline since 1986. Information, education, health care and government were the only major sectors to report increases.

For employment opportunities in both the public and private sectors, visit www.labor.idaho.gov or contact the Idaho Department of Labor at 317 W. Main Street, Boise, Idaho 83735. They have 24 job service offices throughout the state to assist you. Idaho's larger communities are also served by excellent private firms that match job seekers with employment opportunities in the private sector.

CRIME RATE

Idaho's crime rate is the lowest in the Western United States. In fact, according to FBI data, the rate of serious crime here is 30 percent less than the national average.

Because of the homeowner's exemption, these rates are applied to 50 percent of the first $208,942 of market value of owner-occupied primary homes, including the home site. In 2010, the homeowner's exemption will decrease to 50 percent of the first $202,306 of the market value of such primary homes, including the home site.

Individual Income Tax

Idaho's income tax base closely parallels the definition used by the federal government. In general, the same income is taxed and the same deductions are allowed. The Idaho tax rates range from 1.6 percent to 7.8 percent of taxable income. The maximum rate begins at $26,418 for single filers and $52,836 for married couples and heads of households. Idaho income tax brackets are indexed for inflation each year. Contact: Idaho State Tax Commission, P.O. Box 36, Boise, Idaho 83722, 1-800-972-7660. www.tax.idaho.gov

HOUSING

Since property values vary tremendously from community to community and even within a community, we suggest you contact a real estate broker in your locality who is a member of a national relocation network. As a free service, the broker can put you in touch with qualified real estate professionals in specific Idaho communities. Idaho's housing costs are moderate and affordable, and homes are available from modest cottages to executive estates. The following table portrays the average house value in geographically representative Idaho communities:

RESIDENTIAL ENERGY COSTS

Idaho provides a substantial energy cost advantage over much of the nation. Natural gas rates are competitive and residential electric rates are among the lowest in the country. Rates vary regionally as the following data demonstrate:

REGION	NATURAL GAS	ELECTRICITY
Southwestern Idaho	$62.00/mo (65 therms/mo)	*$70.73/mo (1,000 KWH/mo)
Northern Idaho	$69.88/mo (65 therms/mo)	*$79.92/mo (1,000 KWH/mo)
Southeastern Idaho	$62.09/mo (65 therms/mo)	*$75.04/mo (1,000 KWH/mo)
Estimates for natural gas reflect rates for December through March 2009. Estimates for electricity reflect annual average rates for 2006-07 as reported by the three major utility companies.

RECREATION

Idaho is world-famous for outdoor recreation and its landscape is bursting with variety. Mountains soar above 12,000 feet and canyons plunge to form the deepest river gorge in North America, Hells Canyon.

With over one million acres of wilderness area, Idaho has more wilderness than any other state in the lower 48. Thirteen national forests are great for fishing, hiking and hunting, and the backcountry is filled with mountain trails for backpacking and exploring wildlife.

The Salmon River, internationally known, bisects the rugged Frank Church River of No Return Wilderness and provides some of the best whitewater, kayaking and rafting in the world.

Northern Idaho features the greatest concentration of lakes in the West and evergreen forests abound. The "crown jewel " mountain bicycle trail, Route of the Hiawatha, winds through 10 tunnels and 7 high trestles and was selected by Forbes Traveler as one the top 10 Great American Bike Trails.

Winter is ideal for skiing powdery slopes at one of the 18 ski resorts, including legendary Sun Valley. Snowmobiling is boundless along thousands of miles of trails. Idaho is one big playground!

HISTORY

8,000 to 14,000 years ago Paleo-Indian big game hunters lived in what is now Idaho. In 1805 Captains Meriwether Lewis and William Clark entered the area that would become Idaho at Lemhi Pass. Soon after, the first non-native establishment in the northwest was built near Lake Pend Oreille. From wagon trains on the Oregon Trail, to the loggers, trappers, miners, and residents like Ernest Hemingway – Idaho has a rich and colorful history.

HOSPITALS

Idaho has 48 licensed hospitals. All but two Idaho communities with a population of more than 2,500 are within 13 miles of a hospital. The other two communities are within 16 miles of a hospital.

WATER & AIR QUALITY

Much of Idaho's surface water flows out of the high mountains and is generally of high quality. People swim and fish in the center of Boise, the state's largest city, and water-based sports are enjoyed throughout the state. In addition, high-quality groundwater is pumped extensively for agriculture, industrial, and residential use from the Snake River Plain aquifer across southern Idaho and from the Rathdrum Prairie aquifer in the northern panhandle.

Overall Idaho's air quality is good throughout the year. A few locations experience winter temperature inversions, and in some localities pollen affects people with allergies.

COMMUTING TIME

The average commuting time from home to work in Idaho is 20 minutes.

CULTURE

Culture comes in many forms throughout the state: jazz and bluegrass music, symphony orchestra, classical ballet, professional contemporary theater and opera, big-name stars, nationally recognized music festivals, rodeos, county fairs, professional sports, community theatre and a nationally celebrated Shakespeare festival. We have always been proud of the health and quality of our arts community. With our inviting cities and great outdoors, there's always something to do in Idaho!

CLIMATE

Idaho's climate is diverse. It is influenced by Pacific weather patterns, which help moderate temperature extremes. Generally, the northern part of the state has greater precipitation than either southwestern or southeastern Idaho. The southern part of the state has warmer summer temperatures than the north and is drier throughout the year. Southeastern Idaho, however, tends to be cooler than the west and drier than the north. Idaho's growing season varies from about 200 days near the city of Lewiston to very brief at high altitudes. Idaho has no hurricanes. Tornadoes and hail storms are extremely rare. Winds may accompany cold fronts and thunderstorms. Geographically representative climate examples are:

	Elevation	Annual Mean Precipitation	Mean Snowfall	July Avg High Temp	Jan Avg Low Temp	July Avg Afternoon Humidity
Boise	2,840	12.1 in.	21.3 in.	90.2	21.6	22%

EDUCATION

Idaho has a highly educated populace. Among the 50 states, Idaho ranks 21st for percentage of adults aged 25 and older who have graduated from high school (87.3 percent). Sixty-three percent of the state's total general fund is allocated to education. Idaho students score well above the national average on the SAT. Nearly 97 percent of Idaho's school-age children attend public schools, demonstrating a high level of public confidence and ensuring a demographically balanced student population. The Idaho Education Network will connect each public high school to the high-speed education network.

Almost every city with a population over 20,000 has a college or university. Off-campus programs are available at convenient locations throughout the state. Idaho's universities and colleges bring training, research and technical assistance programs within reach via computer, telecommunications and video. University Place in Idaho Falls provides programs through the University of Idaho and Idaho State University.

There are six professional-technical training centers. These centers provide training at business facilities off-campus. In addition to Eastern Idaho Technical College in Idaho Falls, professional-technical programs are offered through Boise State University, Idaho State University, College of Southern Idaho, North Idaho College, Lewis-Clark State College, and College of Western Idaho.
